Vincent – 7yo desexed male Dobermann

Vincent is a very goofy social dog who loves nothing more than to be around people. Having had many decades experience owning Dobermanns, Vincent is by far the most physically affectionate that I have met; constantly ready to curl up to lay with his head on your feet or cuddling into you on the couch or wherever he can find to snuggle into you for pats and physical contact. Vincent will happily stay by your side 24-7 without complaint.

Vincent was surrendered to the Mt Alexander shire and spent six weeks at the animal shelter and has been living in foster accommodation for the past month. During this time, he has shown adept abilities to quickly learn new commands as well as a significant improvement in his weight and general health. Vincent has mild arthritis and requires ongoing use of gabapentin to ensure that he does not progress or suffer from any associated joint pain. Vincent behaves well inside the home and loves to look out the window. He walks very well on the lead and has a grasp of basic commands. Vincent responds very well to training and is currently working on his recall. He will require a home with sturdy fencing as, whilst not a jumper, he is very intelligent and will seek to take advantage of any means of escape so that he can run and run, a loved past time.

Vincent shows signs of separation anxiety however during his time in foster care this has been steadily improving however due to his extremely affectionate nature, a home with a person home for some part of the day would be best suited to his personality.

Vincent has shown signs of aggression towards other animals in certain situations, particularly where toys or members of his pack are concerned. Vincent should not be in a home with other animals. Whilst there has been no indication that Vincent displays aggression towards children, we would recommend a home without any children under 15 years of age.
